

The ISA 67 GT is, as its name suggests, auto-inspired with its rearward raked superstructure designed to mimic the long bonnet of a sports coupe. It also ushers in a new era for the famous GT sport line penned by Enrico Gobbi in a superb melding of performance, luxury, sportiness and dynamism. Gobbi has reworked the ISA trademarks to brilliant effect, the large arch linking the aft cockpit and superstructure being a case in point. Also appearing are Gobbi's own signature continuous windows but despite the sleek exterior, this yacht still accommodates 10 guests in four cabins and a VIP in addition to the full-beam master with enclosed balcony.

The fly deck too is impressive, enclosed between two large transparent glass structures to offer wonderfully sheltered sun bathing and great views in one. The interiors feature wengé, ivory maple and hand-stitched leather for a nice mix of the natural and the rich.
